To our customers

Northern Christmas Trees & Nursery would like to take this moment to express to you, our customers, how much we appreciate your commitment. Your steadfastness through rough economic times has afforded us the capacity to continually expand our nursery program offerings. We have remained a family-owned and operated business for the past 57 years with a commitment to giving our customers the personal service they deserve.

In the spring of 2012, Derek Ahl, our next third generation partner, will be joining the business after graduating from the University of Minnesota in Nursery Production Management. We are very excited to have him here to join his sister, Ashley Ahl, to continue the family business for years to come.

This year we would like to honor our employee, Fred Larson, who has retired after 48 years of service with Northern and say a special thank you to him for his hard work and dedication to our Northern family.

Northern is continuing to grow and change according to our customers' needs by adding to our sales staff, diversifying our product line, streamlining order processing while still maintaining fair and competitive pricing.

We are continually updating our website with our current availability as well as keeping it informative with new product descriptions for you to use as a reference when working with your customers. Please take a minute to visit our website www.northernchristmastrees.com.

As always, a visit to our nursery is encouraged and welcomed, we would be happy to show you around!

- An early bloomer will pollinate other early as well as mid-season varieties.
- A mid-season bloomer will pollinate other mid-seasons as well as BOTH early and late varieties.
- A late season bloomer will pollinate other late and mid-season varieties.

A note regarding cherry tree pollination:

It is generally accepted by the industry that tart cherries are self-fertile while sweet cherries require another variety for cross-pollination. Stella and Sweetheart cherries are sweet varieties that are self-fertile and are the exceptions to the rule.

Small Edible Fruits

Northern's small fruit program results from recommendations by some of the Midwest's most successful commercial growers. Based on years of production success and our customers' reactions, Northern seeks small fruit varieties based on consistent and abundant fruit bearing tendencies paying special attention to the size, color, flavor and ripen time of the fruit. Plant zone hardiness and pollination requirements remain important factors when designing our program for the Midwest.

Weather Notes regarding patio tree and climbing roses.

In spring, both varieties can be susceptible to late season freeze or frost. Minimize cold exposure by covering with burlap when temperatures might fluctuate rapidly from warm to cold.

Wintering techniques include cutting back stems to avoid die back from extended cold. Patio tree roses can be trenched in with mulch as an added cold barrier. Potted tree roses should be moved into a protected environment, watered and covered with burlap.
